Santa Claus makes his grand entrance

In what many are describing as the best parade this community has seen in a long time, Minden rolled out a slightly damp, but extremely warm welcome for Santa Claus Saturday afternoon. Co-ordinated by the Minden Lions Club, the parade featured a large selection of floats, two marching bands, including the county's newest flute band, many costumed characters and of course, the jolly old man himself. Hundreds lined the parade route between the arena and downtown. Following the parade, many children visited with Santa at the fire hall. For more photos from Santa's big day, see pages 6 and 7.

Bill 173 introduces new restrictions

Merchants struggle with new smoking rules

by Andrew Milne

Ontario's new Tobacco Control Act came into effect November 30.

The act, which among other things bans smoking in certain businesses serving the public, has received mixed reviews from local business owners.

Stu Brandon runs Northland Sales in Minden.

"It concerns me very much," says Brandon, "that the Rae government sees fit to meddle any more in my business."

"They pretty much," he continues, "with all their existing legislation, additional legislation since they were elected — want to get involved in the day to day operation. And now this just piled on top of the other I find outrageous. I don't disagree with the principle, but it's just one more piece of legislation that needs to be enforced at great expense to the taxpayer."

Brandon, along with many other local business owners, received a package in the mail, with details on the new restrictions, and glossy signs in French and English to be posted in his business.

Besides banning smoking in stores, financial institutions, video and amusement arcades, laundromats, hair salons, barber shops and bus shelters and stations, Bill 119:

— makes it illegal to sell or give tobacco to anyone under the age of 19,

— requires persons selling tobacco to post health warnings, age limits, and notices about identification to prove one is of age to purchase tobacco, — bans the sale of "kiddie packs" — packages with fewer than 20 cigarettes,

— bans cigarette vending machines,

— requires a list of toxins on tobacco packages, in addition to the now familiar health warnings,

— bans the sale of tobacco products in pharmacies as of Dec. 31,

— restricts smoking to designated areas in malls, hospitals, colleges, and universities, — requires clearly posted signs in areas in which smoking is restricted or prohibited, and — sets out more severe fines and penalties for the sale of tobacco to minors, smoking in restricted areas, and the violation of any of the packaging requirements.

Lewis Stevens runs Stop 35, a restaurant on highway 35 in Minden. As a restaurant owner, he already provides smoking and non-smoking areas for his customers, and says he doesn't expect the new legislation will make a huge difference to him.

"It's between a rock and a READY FOR THE NEW TERM: Members of the new Anson, Hindon and Minden municipal council are seated at the council table following the swearing-in ceremonies on Thursday. hard place," says Stevens, "because there's no doubt at all that people who don't smoke most certainly don't want to be sitting in the middle of an atmosphere that is smoky. And I'm sure they appreciate the idea that they can have a smoke-free zone, in particular when they're sitting down to enjoy their meals. On the other hand, people that smoke, there's no reason why they shouldn't be all of one sort in an environment that's conducive to what they want."

Both Stevens and Brandon, however, have questions about the glossy, printed packages they received in the mail from the government about the legislation.

"That looks like a very expensive brochure," says Stevens, "and I hope it's worthy of what they're trying to do."

"Because they (the government) have so much money," says Brandon, "some businesses in town received four packages. And if you take a look at the glossy paper, the average package would be brutally expensive at best."

"And to send four to a business is overkill, I would suggest. But it's pretty much the way they do business," he says.

The Ministry of Health said in a press release November 30 that the bill is primarily aimed at reducing smoking in Ontario — especially among young people — and at protecting Ontarians from second hand smoke.

The release cites statistics that show increased tobacco use among young people in the last few years.

According to the release, one of every four young people aged 15 to 19 smokes, and since 1991 smoking among Grade 7 students has increase 50 percent.

And despite decades of public warnings, says the release, tobacco accounts for 80 percent of lung cancers, and 25 percent of all fatal cancers.

The fine structure under the bill is also outlined in the release. Under the new laws, persons smoking in an area where smoking is prohibited can be fined up to $1,000 for a first offence. And tobacco retailers who sell to minors can be fined up to $2,000 as an individual, or $5,000 as a corporation.

Fines for second and subsequent offenses are as high as $75,000.

Mary Coneybeare manages Minden's Toronto Dominion, (all women), full service, bank branch

Carving out a special niche in the banking world

by Andrew Milne

In downtown Minden there is a bank operated entirely by women.

This is probably an accident as much as anything. But for the very experienced and very competent woman in the manager's office, it's the cause of some fascinating questions.

Mary Coneybeare is manager of the Minden branch of Toronto Dominion Bank, a full service lending institution that does commercial lending as well as personal banking.

"It's kind of interesting," says Coneybeare. "We had a grade seven class come to visit the other day, and they were all sitting out here on the floor, and I was talking about banking. And the one little boy said, 'You don't have any men in this branch.' And I said, no we don't. And he said, 'How come there isn't a man in that office?' In this office (the manager's office)."

"And I thought that was kind of interesting coming from a grade seven boy."

Why aren't there any men in the Minden branch?

Well, for one thing, it seems to be doing just fine without any.

The manager's chair, which, as the twelve-year old so astutely observed, is so often occupied by a man, is currently occupied by Coneybeare.

With sixteen years in banking, eight of which she spent in a variety of managerial roles in banks in Whitby, Oshawa, Pickering and Lindsay, Coneybeare is probably the perfect woman for the job.

Coneybeare is originally from the Minden area. She started working in the Minden branch 16 years ago.

"My father was a banker," says Coneybeare. "So I guess it was probably in my blood."

Coneybeare worked in the Minden branch for several years before deciding the manager's chair looked good. But the bank wanted her to get a little experience elsewhere.

So they sent her south, where she picked up the suite of skills they were looking for.

It was in other branches outside the community where she acquired much of the commercial lending experience that sets her branch apart.

The manager of Minden's Toronto Dominion Bank, Mary Coneybeare..... she wears many hats.

She wanted to return to Minden when the manager retired in the late 80's. But the bank wanted her to have commercial credit lending experience.

"So they took me out of an administration job," she says, "and threw me into commercial credit and said, there you go."

"I worked in Whitby, Oshawa and Pickering for three years, then I moved back to Lindsay handling commercial credit for five years, before I came home to Minden. In Lindsay, all I basically did was small business. I managed their small business portfolio, which is fairly extensive. This gave me experience which has been invaluable. The manager of a small branch wears a lot of hats, and it's good to be comfortable in that one."

What is unusual for this bank, says Coneybeare, is the idea of a woman doing commercial credit.

"All the women managers in our division, head up personal banking branches. They seem to think that women are better caretakers of the personal side of the business."

"Minden is a full service branch, which offers commercial lending as well as personal banking services and its the only one in town that offers both."

Coneybeare says many of the loans her branch handles are for small business. And that, she says, is a good thing.

"This branch has been very active in providing a great deal of assistance to small business. I'm very pleased with that personally because Minden is my home. That's what this comes down to in the end — Minden is my home and I really believe in it."

"And there's good business out there," Coneybeare continues. "We're not talking poor business. There's good business out there. But there are things to understand about the local economy — about the tourist economy — the highs and the lows and the ebbs and the flows of it. Having been involved in small business, (her husband Al operated a family grocery store in Minden for years...a tradition which continues with her son, Chris, the owner of Coneybeare's Butcher Shop) I know you have to work like the very devil in the summer time. The problem I sometimes run into is that everybody has a wonderful summer and they think they have all this money available and they go out and they buy all this new stuff, and then forget that February and March and April are coming — March and April are the two worst months — and they have to get through them before Easter."

Coneybeare is willing to venture a few guesses as to the future of business in Haliburton County.

"I think if we're going to have growth," says Coneybeare, "we're going to need strong plans for attracting business. And I think there's room in Haliburton County for... small factories, small enterprise — I don't think we'll ever have a General Motors plant up here... Particularly as communications improves — I mean everything can be done by fax now. Haliburton County has always had a problem with transportation, because you've got to transport whatever you make out of here. But those costs are cheaper now."

She hopes her bank can play a part in that growth. For the moment, though she is proud of niche the Minden TD branch has carved out for itself, not only in the community it serves but in the banking world as well.

"We take a lot of kidding from our customers," says Coneybeare, "because we don't have any men around, but it seems to work quite well."

"It's a good branch, and we enjoy working here. And I think our customers enjoy coming here."

Swimmers fail to elude police

by Jerry Grozelle

The temperature was well below freezing early Saturday morning, but two car theft suspects decided to jump in the Gull River in an attempt to elude the police.

The incident started when three males approached a Miner's Bay area resident shortly after 5 a.m. Saturday to ask for some gas for a car. Because of the suspicious nature of the individuals, the person who provided the gas called police to report the incident.

The three got the car going and proceeded north on Highway 35.

Police report that the suspects pulled in to the parking lot of the Minden Hospital because the car had started to smoke.

Deciding to abandon the stolen 1989 Plymouth Sundance, the trio then tried to steal a car in the hospital parking lot. When a nurse in the hospital saw what was going on and shouted at them, they fled on foot.

Moments later, patrolling OPP officers David Trepanier and Mark Davis spotted the suspects on Anson Street near the Keaney Plymouth Chrysler dealership, and gave chase.

In the meantime, the Minden fire department was called to attend to the smoking car.

When the three suspects were cornered behind a house by the river, two of them tried to escape by swimming the river. The other was arrested on the east side of the river.

Thinking that a rescue may be necessary, firefighters went to the west side of the river. When the two swimmers crawled out of the water, they happily surrendered to firefighters and were turned over to police.

Charges of possession of stolen property, a narcotics offense and one charge of breach of an undertaking were laid. The three suspects are Kevin Johnston, 20, of Oshawa, Ted Manuel, 19, of the Toronto area and a 17-year-old young offender from Toronto.

The Plymouth Sundance had been stolen from Oshawa. It has been returned to its owner.

The suspects were in police custody by 6:10 a.m. Two were released and the third was held in custody. They are scheduled to appear in Provincial Court in Minden on January 18.

Eric Nystedt Memorial Park in Minden?

Stan Brown, who was involved with the Dollo's IGA sponsored tree planting at Minden Lake October 29, approached Anson, Hindon and Minden council at its November 24 meeting to ask that the Minden Lake site be developed into a park. He suggested that the park be named in honour of Eric Nystedt, a Minden OPP constable who was killed in the line of duty.

Council members expressed concern that a park at the Minden Lake site may not see much use.

It was suggested that the municipality owns some property on Newcastle Street in Minden that may be more suitable for a park.

Brown expressed an interest in that site. He plans to talk with the Parks and Recreation Committee as well as local service organizations such as the Lions and Rotary clubs about developing the Newcastle Street property into a park.

"If we can get the Lions and Rotary clubs involved, maybe we can get some equipment and have a really nice park in town," Brown said.

Brown was asked if he would be interested in serving on the Parks and Recreation Committee and he indicated that he would be.

Brown said he plans to keep pushing for a park in Minden to honour Eric Nystedt.

Public should be involved

The election banners are tucked away and the dust has all but settled for another three years. There is, however, one more crucial vote to take place, but this time the electors of Haliburton County will not be asked to participate. The election takes place this December 13, when the 17 members of Haliburton County Council will elect a Warden for the coming year.

The position of Warden has been described as the highest political office in the county. While in the past the post has carried more ceremonial honours than actual political clout, over the last few years that role has changed. The county government has acquired increasing responsibility, expanding into areas that were once the exclusive purview of the municipalities. The signals from Queen's Park have also indicated that the province, in looking for greater economies and policy integration across the province, will be turning increasingly to a body with a broad jurisdiction, like the county government. Much of the co-ordination for restructuring, a term which surfaced so frequently in the last municipal election, will fall to the county. The importance of the position of Warden will surely increase in the coming years.

County councillors will choose from among their own numbers, one to serve as Warden for the coming year. Those interested in being the Warden have been campaigning for the past few weeks, but it is highly unlikely the public has heard who wants the job or what vision they see for the future of Haliburton County. The hopefuls and their supporters have been lobbying other members of county council, quietly soliciting support, just as has been done for many years. The important ingredient missing in this equation is the involvement of the public.

If the senior level of municipal government is about to play a more important role in the lives of area residents, we believe those who wish to lead it should be required to give some idea of where they stand on the future of the county. At the moment, the only people who have any idea what those platforms might be, or even who is in the running, are the other members of council. It is time to bring the public into the process. A good place to start would be to have candidates declare their intentions and platforms several weeks ahead of the formal vote.

Searching for photos of Mowat

Editor:

In 1894, the Gilmour Company of Trenton commenced building a complicated system of log lifts and chutes with the labour of 1000 men, to ship logs from Canoe Lake in Algonquin Park to its sawmill at Trenton. The route followed the Oxtongue River and Lake of Bays to Raven Lake, which was dammed to allow the logs into St. Nora's Lake, the Muskoka system and the Trent River to Trenton. The logs spoiled on the 200 mile trip so Gilmour, undefeated, shipped his sawmill back up the route and established a village named Mowat, at Canoe Lake. There was subsequently, a Mowat Lodge at Canoe Lake where painter Tom Thompson was staying when he met his mysterious death.

I am researching this story and would appreciate the help of any readers who may have relevant information, particularly photographs of Mowat as I have been unable to locate any pictorial records of this village.

Just a little cynical

Editor:

Forgive me if I am a little cynical about Mr. Sternberg's "new" store at HHSS. Carole Finn and her classes ran a store, beauty shop and home nursing course long ago. Carole set up all three, but they were tossed out when the excellent S.T. and T. or "Robarts Plan" was abandoned by our all-knowing provincial government.

I doubt if John O'Reilly has had time to read the tome featured in Mr. Bamborough's letter. The man seems to have an ego the size of a house.

I'm saving my comments on "Woodlot support plan rejected by forest owner" (November 28) until I see if we mere humans are allowed on the property in question.

The slow erosion of your privacy

The increasing availability of computers has created a rise in opportunities for the compiling of information and for the misuse of that data. The following article, prepared by the Information and Privacy Commission of Ontario, outlines some of the potential problems and the steps individuals can take to protect themselves.

You heard it here first. Privacy protection is the next up and coming trend in the business world.

In the late '80s it was the environment and green labels. Then came customer service and door-greeters. Now privacy is rapidly emerging as a key consumer issue. Polls are tracking concern for privacy at the 80 per cent range. Can a giant corporate race for privacy-positioning be far behind?

Think of it: next time you ask at the bank WHY they need your Social Insurance Number, the teller will quietly reach over and hand you a shiny new pamphlet: "Our Banking Commitment: Protecting Your Privacy."

When you sign along the dotted line for a monthly donation to your Alma Mater or favourite charity (handing over your bank account number and address in the process), there will be a new proud declaration in bold type: "We will not sell, trade or rent this information to any other organization."

Sound over-cautious? Maybe paranoid?

Not according to the real-life organizations that have already done exactly that. Banks, universities...even grocery stores are now making the move to position themselves as privacy protectors.

With good reason too. According to a report by Ontario's Information and Privacy Commissioner, privacy has become a "rare commodity".

"There's a niche being created, here," says Commissioner Tom Wright. "Privacy has become a consumer need — a market demand."

Surveys back up Wright's point.

A Gallup poll conducted this year found that 84 per cent of Canadians are concerned about how the information highway will affect their personal privacy.

An Ekos survey done in 1993 found that 81 per cent of Canadians "felt strongly" that they should be told, before someone collects information about them. Eighty-three per cent think they should be told, when information about them is passed between organizations.

So who created this demand for privacy, that businesses are now moving in to supply?

Tom Wright passes credit to the computer.

In the last 20 years we've seen an explosion of computers in the workplace. There used to be one computer per company. Now it's one per desk.

And inside every computer are the bits and bytes of information that are slowly eating away at our privacy.

It's easy to store information in a computer: there are no big filing cabinets, no carbon copies, no bulging files of aging paper. It's neat, compact and quick.

And computers aren't just good at storing information. They're also good at collecting it.

Computer systems are watching when you withdraw your money. They see when you buy flowers at the corner store. They notice when you drop in for a visit at your friend's condominium. And they talk to each other.

"People have no way of knowing the depth, or the accuracy of the 'data trail' they're leaving behind them," Wright notes.

The remarkable result of this expanding information base is a whole new field of enterprise: database marketing. Companies aren't just collecting and storing information about us — they're selling it. Renting it. Trading it.

And the receiving companies turn around and use it — to market directly to a target audience.

The examples are chilling.

* A video chain was planning to sell mailing lists categorized by rental patterns. (Those who rent action movies, those who rent kid's movies, tear-jerkers, adult XXX films...)

* A long distance phone company figured out where its customers travelled. (Someone looked at where the phone calls had been charged from). Then they sold that information to hotels and airlines.

* A credit card company created "customer profiles", based on where people had gone shopping and sold the profile lists.

* A credit bureau sold a list of credit-worthy individuals to a bank. The bank then tried to sign up the "credit-worthies" for a new credit card.

* In the U.S., governments have sold drivers' licence data. The buyers were companies looking for lists of people who wear glasses, people who are overweight...

It goes on and on.

And people are starting to notice.

That video chain planning to sell "movie preference lists"? It was noticed by the New York Times. The resulting consumer outcry put a quick end to that plan.

And the credit bureau and bank working together to offer new credit to the credit-worthy were not only noticed: they received a clear rebuke from the public. More than 500 people were riled up enough to track down that credit bureau, phone them up and complain.

That's in Canada. In the U.S. the cries of complaints

These elevators only go down

Question time, sodbusters: what's the first word that springs to mind when somebody mentions "Canadian Prairies"?

Lots of possibilities. If you've ever driven off a prairie road and found your car up to its leaf springs in a dark brown goop with a consistency somewhere between molasses and Portland cement — the word "gumbo" might sum up the Prairie experience for you.

For others, the word "grasslands" might do it — although it's a pretty wussy word to describe the billowing, endless ocean of green and yellow that stretches from horizon to horizon and beyond.

Some folks think "gophers" when they think of our west. Or maybe "sunsets" (sub-section: spectacular).

For me, it's elevators. Those austere and elegant wooden highrises that have dotted the Prairies for more than a century. Sometimes, driving across the Prairies, a grain elevator is all you can see. And you see it for hours, rearing up out of the flatlands, just up the road apiece, tantalizing you. It's amazing how long you can see a Prairie elevator before you reach it.

The first ones went up in the 1880's. They were convenient places to store wheat crops along the railway lines. All the farmers in a district would haul their grain down to the elevator and "pool" it with their neighbours' crops. Pretty soon a general store would go up, then a livery and maybe a cafe. Before long a little cluster of buildings were hunkered down around the elevator.

How many Prairie towns were seeded that way? Hundreds, perhaps thousands. They didn't all become big or even middling places, but they were there. People farmed and fought and prayed and played and loved and lived and died in those tiny settlements.

And none of that would have happened without the elevator.

I visited one such town last summer — Piapot, in Saskatchewan. Piapot is just off the Trans Canada highway, roughly half-way between Swift Current and Medicine Hat, Alberta.

It's a wonderful town, full of characters who look and act like they walked straight out of a W.O. Mitchell novel.

It's a fascinating town, but it's dying.

It thrived back in the middle years of the century. Now, the population has shrivelled to 43 — many of them old-timers planning to leave for a town with a doctor when their health starts to fail.

Trouble is, there's not much to do in Piapot, now that the train doesn't stop there any more.

Next year, another nail in the coffin. The Piapot grain elevator will be closed.

It's a depressingly familiar story on the prairies these days. There's a contractor by the name of Don Wilcox who has spent the past 15 years pulling down grain elevators all across Saskatchewan.

It wasn't Don's idea — the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool hired him to do it. Saskatchewan wheat farmers are consolidating — moving their crops into huge centralized concrete bunkers that can hold 100 times the volume of those rickety old wooden elevators.

The new structures aren't called elevators. They're called Marketing Centres.

It's progress — but it's death for the old style elevators and death for the communities that flourished around them.

So far, Don Wilcox and his demolition crew have felled nearly a thousand wooden elevators across Saskatchewan. They expect to have the species fully exterminated in the next five or six years.

A few will survive, preserved as tourist attractions, souvenir shops, or funky little Chamber of Commerce offices.

Maybe some entrepreneur will tart them up and sell some of them off as weekend retreats for Yuppy lawyers from Regina and Moose Jaw and Winnipeg.

The poet A.M. Klein wrote a poem about a grain elevator once.

Up...

It rises blind and Babylonian like something out of legend.

That's what out Prairie elevators have become alright — something out of legend.

I wonder if anybody will ever write a poem about the new prairie Marketing Centres?

Seminar will demonstrate how to get the most out of trade shows

Showing off a business at trade shows is an excellent way to promote its services, products and facilities.

The Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce is offering area businesses the opportunity to maximize the impact of their displays at trade and consumer shows. The Chamber is presenting "Trade Shows Made Profitable", a one-day workshop conducted by North America's leading trade show expert Barry Siskind.

Bryan Brown, one of the organizers of the event, attended the workshop in Barrie and he highly recommends it.

"The objective is to provide the business people of the county with better skills to make more sales," Brown said. "If they don't go to this workshop in their own back yard, they will be missing a great opportunity."

Brown said that any business which has displayed its products or services at local consumer shows or even the big shows, such as the home, boat or sportsman's shows in Toronto would gain some valuable insights into the dos and don'ts of successful trade/consumer show promotions. He is confident that the workshop would be worthwhile to even the most seasoned trade and consumer show veterans.

"I don't believe any business wouldn't benefit from this workshop," Brown said.

Among the subjects Siskind will explain are: how to set focused show objectives; creating a winning booth; developing a powerful promotional package; preparing a show budget; learning how to deal with a large number of show visitors quickly; understanding the secrets of show selling; and getting extra mileage with an effective follow-up plan.

Those who would benefit from the workshop are company show co-ordinators, marketing managers, and other personnel from such varied businesses as lodges and resorts, real estate companies, travel counsellors, and various associations.

The workshop is a must for businesses which are not yet exhibiting their products and services at such shows, but plan to do so in the future.

The workshop will be held at PineStone Inn and Conference Centre on Thursday, December 8 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Registration for the workshop costs $75 for the first representative of each business and $70 for each additional representative.

To take advantage of this workshop, contact Lynn Mackey at the Chamber. The telephone number is 286-1760 and the fax number is 286-6016. The toll free number, for those outside the local telephone exchange, is 1-800-461-7677. The cost of registration includes lunch, two coffee breaks and a copy of Siskind's best-selling book entitled "The Successful Exhibitor Handbook".

Brown said that Siskind doesn't usually do his workshops in markets as small as Haliburton County, adding that the Chamber is fortunate to have persuaded him to conduct his workshop at PineStone.

"Someone with this high a profile could only be expected to come to this area maybe once in 10 years," Brown said.

Companies should have privacy policies to protect their customers are even louder. Thirty thousand people called to complain when a credit bureau there joined forces with a computer company. Together the companies had produced a giant, comprehensive list of 120 million American consumers — complete with names, addresses, buying habits and income details. After the calls, that list got cancelled too — at considerable expense to its developers.

There's a backlash evident here. Businesses come up with new, ingenious ways of combining information about people — and the people react.

The Information and Privacy Commissioner has documented that reaction in his report, Privacy Protection Makes Good Business Sense.

Wright says the trend is clear. Any company planning to compile or combine what is called personal information should clearly think twice. Consumers obviously don't have a lot of sympathy for privacy abuse.

Hence the emerging trend in privacy protection.

"If you deal in data," Wright notes, "You have two choices. You can position yourself as a privacy protector or you can BE positioned as a privacy abuser."

Positioning one's company as a privacy protector is a relatively simple exercise: it means establishing policies for privacy, publicizing them and living by them.

"Companies have to recognize that they don't own the personal data in their computers," Wright says. "That's the first step in establishing a privacy code."

"Individuals own their own personal information. If you respect that, the rest follows."

Wright encourages companies to think of themselves as "personal information caretakers". Taking care of personal information, he says, is much like taking care of someone else's building, or their land:

* Make sure it's secure. Have safeguards to make sure no one can steal or alter the information. Those safeguards should cover its storage and use.

* Do regular maintenance. Keep information up to date and accurate.

* Let the real owners in. Individuals should be able to access their own information and correct it if necessary.

* Plan ahead. Just as companies now do an environmental assessment before any new physical project, they need to do a privacy assessment before embarking on any project involving personal information.

* Repair anything you damage. Good planning is the key, but even then, mistakes can happen. Privacy "leaks" should be fixed and the owner should be compensated.

It's amazing to realize how many businesses could do with some privacy planning. It gives you a sense of just how pervasive computers and information collecting have become.

Auto shops routinely keep information about the people coming in to get their cars repaired. Appliance stores log the name, phone number and address of every person who makes a purchase. Supermarkets have an intimate record of the eating habits of anyone using a discount or "club" card to buy groceries.

And some of these businesses are beginning to hear the message from consumers.

"I've been watching the growth of privacy awareness with interest," Tom Wright says. "Frankly, some companies are gaining their awareness the hard way."

"But I'm also beginning to see companies that are adopting privacy policies before the crisis happens. That's heartening."

Wright notes that, at this point, large organizations are leading the movement in the new market for privacy protection.

"I've seen some banks, universities, big charities and even one large grocery chain — all making overtures toward the privacy market," Wright says.

As that market grows, you can bet that "privacy protection" will move up to front and centre in all businesses.

Coming soon to a corner store near you. Watch for it.

Third-period rally gives Redmen victory over Weldon

by Jerry Grozelle

A 9-2 loss to the Kenner Rams was only a temporary setback for the HHSS Redmen in Kawartha High School Hockey League play last week. The Redmen rebounded the following day to defeat the I.E. Weldon Wildcats by a 9-5 margin at the Dysart Community Centre.

The win in Haliburton wasn't without its anxious moments for the Redmen. For the first two periods, Haliburton was forced to play catch-up hockey. The Wildcats led 5-4 going into the third, but during the intermission, talk in the Redmen's dressing room centred around what had to be done to get out of the rut. Realizing they weren't going to be handed this game on a silver platter, the Haliburton squad went onto the ice for the third period with a better attitude, and a different goaltender. Peter Brohman took over between the pipes for Justin Rowden, who wasn't playing up to his potential.

Whatever the formula, the Redmen jumped back into the driver's seat and took control of the game. They scored five unanswered goals to earn the 9-5 victory.

Weldon got the jump on the Redmen, scoring the first goal five and a half minutes into the game. A minute later Mark Stamp notched his first of five markers in the game to tie it up.

"I got a rebound at the side of the net and slid it under the goalie," Stamp said.

Mark Morissette and Tim Stouffer assisted on the equalizer.

With less than five minutes left in the first frame, the Wildcats struck again, taking a 2-1 advantage into the second period.

The middle frame was only 14 seconds old when Stamp notched the tying goal for the second time. Again, he tucked in a rebound. Stouffer and Jonathan Bishop assisted on that one.

Ninety seconds after that, Stamp cruised in front of the Weldon net and took a backhand shot. Wildcat netminder Ryan Richardson made the save, but about five seconds later, the puck bounced out into the slot, where Stamp slapped it home.

That unassisted goal put the Redmen in front for the first time in the game, but the lead wouldn't last. The Wildcats scored two in a row to regain the lead.

With 3:24 left in the second period, Stamp cut across in front of the Weldon net and tucked the puck in past Richardson to tie the game at 4-4. Bishop and Jackie Morrison assisted.

The Wildcats continued to press and before the second period ended, they added one more to the visitors' side of the scoreboard for a 5-4 lead going into the third.

It seemed like a different team emerged from the Haliburton dressing room for the third period. Forty-one seconds after the opening faceoff Bishop capped a two-man rush, scoring the equalizer with the Wildcats short-handed. Stamp and Dennis Woods assisted.

At the 6:58 mark of the 15-minute frame, Woods scored what proved to be the game winner. Morrison did most of the work to set up that goal, taking control of the puck in the corner and fighting off three checks before getting a shot on net. Richardson made the save, but Woods was there to pounce on the rebound and put it in the net. Stamp drew an assist on that goal as well, for his sixth point on six Haliburton goals.

A scramble in front of the Weldon net a couple of minutes later saw Dan Pocklington and Curtis Fielding each get a whack at the puck in the slot before Josh Burk put it in to give Haliburton a 7-5 lead.

A minute and a quarter remained in the game when Stamp passed the puck out from the corner to Bishop in front of the Weldon net. Bishop one-timed it past the netminder for Haliburton's eighth goal. Woods picked up an assist as well as Stamp.

In the dying seconds of the game, Haliburton goalie Peter Brohman shovelled the puck to Woods, who started out of his own end and fed a pass to Stamp as centre ice. Stamp went around two Weldon defenders and went in alone on Richardson. With three seconds left in the game, Stamp added insult to injury, scoring his fifth goal of the night.

During the game in Peterborough the day before, Stamp was held to a single assist, when he helped Bishop set up Morrison's goal. Dan Pocklington scored the other Redmen goal, from Jeff Wray.

With six days of rest, the Redmen will go to Fenelon Falls to take on the Falcons tomorrow (Tuesday). The next home game for the HHSS team is Wednesday, December 7, when they will play host to the Crestwood Mustangs. Game time is 8 p.m.

One more time: League scoring leader Mark Stamp, of the HHSS Redmen, scores goal number five for the night against the Weldon Wildcats, with three seconds left in the Kawartha High School Hockey League game in Haliburton last Wednesday.

Stamp paces High School Hockey League with 24 points

Mark Stamp of the HHSS Redmen leads the Kawartha High School Hockey League scoring race with 24 points. He has scored 13 goals and 11 assists, holding an eight point lead over his nearest rival, Glen Hodge of Lakefield College School.

Stamp is one of five Haliburton players who have 10 points or more.

Jonathan Bishop is in third spot with six goals and nine assists, for 15 points. He's just one point back of second.

Mark Morissette is fourth with 13 points from six goals and seven assists.

Kevin Morissette is seventh, with six goals and five assists for 11 points.

A little further down the list is Jackie Morrison. He has 10 points (along with six other players) from three goals and seven assists.

Dennis Woods is close behind, with nine points from five goals and four assists.

REDMEN TIED FOR FIRST

The Haliburton Redmen are tied for first place in the overall league standings (as of December 2) with 10 points. They have five wins and one loss in six games. Over those six games, the Redmen have scored 43 goals (the highest goal production in the league) and allowed 22.

The St. Peter's Saints, of Peterborough, also have 10 points. They are undefeated in five games with 31 goals for and 10 against.

In the West division, of which Hali-burton is one of three teams, I.E. Weldon's Wildcats, of Lindsay, are second. The Wildcats have won three, tied one and lost two, for seven points.

The Fenelon Falls Falcons trail the West division, with one win and six losses in seven games.

Besides the Saints, two other teams are undefeated. Both of those teams are Central Division rivals with St. Peter's.

The Kenner Rams are the only team to have a win against the Redmen. They have won all four of their games to date for eight points.

The other undefeated team is the Crestwood Mustangs. Crestwood had only played three games as of Friday, winning all three.

The East division appears to be the weakest of the three divisions. Lakefield College leads that division with nine points. The team's record is an unimpressive four wins, four losses and one tie in nine games.

Sorry Mark!

Our apologies to Mark Stamp, scoring ace for the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School Redmen hockey team. He has been mistakenly referred to as Jason Stamp in previous sports stories in The Times.

We'll try not to make that mistake again!

Atom A team inconsistent

by Jerry Grozelle

Hot and cold would be the best way to describe the play of the Minden atom A Monarchs in their last few games. The Monarchs played their best game of the season, according to coach Barry Shaw, when they hosted Beaverton on November 26. The Minden boys skated circles around the opposition, earning a 6-0 shutout for goalie Philip Neville.

The next day, Shaw left the Fenelon Falls Recreation Centre shaking his head and wondering where the team he coached the night before had gone. This time, the Minden squad was on the short end of a 7-1 score.

"We left our game on ice in Beaverton," Shaw speculated. "We didn't skate."

One bright spot Shaw pointed out was Ben Carpenter, who was filling in on the team for the day.

"He played a good game," Shaw said.

In the game against Beaverton, Shaw said: "Both lines were flying; the defense was excellent; and goaltender Philip Neville was great."

Fortunately, for the hometown fans, the best game was in Minden. It took the Monarchs a period to get warmed up, but after a scoreless first frame, they scored three times in each of the next two for the 6-0 victory.

Ashley Pettes scored the first two goals for Minden and Josh Shaw notched the next four in a row. Andy Kinsman picked up a pair of assists while Trevor Woods and Mark Hamilton had one helper each.

The game in Fenelon Falls saw Pettes notch the lone Minden marker, on a setup from Hamilton.

EXHIBITION GAME

An exhibition game back on October 29 saw the Minden boys down the visiting Haliburton crew by a 6-2 score.

Pettes scored twice and single goals were notched by Jamie Colliss, Kinsman, Hamilton and Shaw. It was a four-point game for Shaw, who helped set up three of his teammates' goals. Woods, Steve Johnson, Kinsman, Hamilton and Kent Greer had one assist apiece.

The Haliburton sharpshooters were Travis Bain and Cory Sisson. One assist each went to Alex Ambridge, Chris Bishop, Matt Gerry and Lyle Robinson.

The Monarchs will play in Beaverton on December 11 and in Haliburton on December 16. The next home game won't be until Saturday, December 24, when they will play host to Beaverton. That game will start at 2 p.m.

Close competition highlights Minden Men's Hockey action

by Jerry Grozelle

Close competition was the order of the day for the Minden Men's Hockey Association on November 28. The three games of the evening saw two end in ties and the other one resulted in a win by a two goal margin.

STAMP 6, KDD 4

The night's opening game saw Kountry Double D score the opener, but that was the only time KDD enjoyed the lead. By the end of the first half, the Stamp team was ahead 3-1.

KDD tied the game at 4-4 in the second half, but Stamp scored two unanswered goals for the win.

Scott Nesbitt notched two markers for the winners and added one assist. Trini Elias, Boomer Stamp, Greg Hurle and Dave Dollo were the other Stamp snipers with one apiece. Eldon Bull helped the winning cause with three assists. Tom Miscio and Gary Harrison had two each and a single helper went to Bern Berry.

Ben Manuge scored twice for KDD, with Steve Stewart and Chris Grossman notching singles. John Teljeur had a pair of assists for KDD with Charlie Teljeur, Rob Adams and Greg Alexander getting one each.

TIMES 3, WESTSIDE 3

The middle game saw The Times give up a 3-1 lead to settle for a 3-3 tie against Westside Jug City.

Jeff Howe led The Times offence, scoring a pair of goals. Doug Schell got the other one. Ron May had two assists and Mark Thompson had one helper.

For the Westside squad, the sharpshooters were Scott Hamilton (with two) and Scott Danilko. Danilko and Craig Crowe had two assists apiece and Hamilton had one.

HOME 5, HARTWICK 5

The match-up between Home Hardware and Hartwick Construction ended in a 5-5 draw when Hartwick scored two late goals to catch up.

Wyatt Nesbitt paced the Home attack with a hat trick. Dave Hartwick and Lawrence Loughheed scored one each. John Ballantyne and Kent Taylor contributed two assists each to the Home Hardware cause. Single assists were added by Fraser Rogers, Loughheed and Andy Schollig.

Ivan Ingram, Andrew Burke, Dean Sisson, Shane Yateman and Ritchie Mills were the Hartwick sharpshooters. Ingram helped the cause with two assists. Burke, Jason Stamp, Gord Wood and Mills assisted on one each.

Classroom instruction: New junior curlers got some classroom instruction on the basics of the game at the first session last Thursday at the Minden Curling Club.

Junior curling league formed

If you are in the 12 to 18 age group and are interested in curling, the Minden Curling Club wants you.

The club is organizing a junior mixed division and about 15 new curlers turned out for the first instructional session last Thursday. Once they master the basics, teams will be formed and the competition will begin.

The junior curlers have the 4 to 6 p.m.

time slot on Thursday afternoons set aside for them.

Instructors for the program are Dana Kinsman, Bob Pollard and Alf Trotter.

Even though the first instructional session is history, club officials say they will accept more registrations. To register, contact Zelda Cooper at 286-2615 or drop by the Minden Curling Club at 4 p.m. Thursday.

On-ice practice: After learning some of the theory of curling, new juniors took to the ice for some practical instruction from Dana Kinsman, Bob Pollard and Alf Trotter.

Bantam A Monarchs get back in stride with two wins

Highlighting the last five games played by the Rip's Decorating Service bantam A Monarchs hockey team were two out-of-town games against Sunderland and Mariposa (in Oakwood). The OMHA squad came out of a slump after two losses and a tie to attack the opposition with a winning attitude.

The game in Sunderland on November 26 saw the Minden boys come out on top by a 5-3 score.

Ryan Anderson scored two minutes into the game with the assistance of Chris Nielson and Wayne Kernohan.

Sunderland scored two in a row, but Darren Mills tied the game on a set-up from Steve Ecclestone.

By the end of the second frame, Nielson put the Monarchs ahead for good. Kernohan, who usually plays defense, was taking a turn as winger for the game. He picked up his second assist of the game on that goal.

Anderson rounded out his hat trick with two more markers before the game ended. The last one was 12 seconds before the final buzzer. Nielson assisted on one and Mills set up the other one.

The win over Mariposa was by a 5-2 margin in Oakwood on November 28.

Mills was in high gear for that game, scoring a hat trick. The first one was assisted by winger Cory Casey.

Anderson scored the second Minden goal, from Nielson and Ben Ripley.

Mills' second goal was assisted by Ecclestone and Donald Todd.

Casey, who usually plays defense, tipped in a shot with three minutes left in the middle frame. Mills and Ecclestone assisted.

Mills rounded out his hat trick with the assist going to Ecclestone.

Nathan Stevenson was back in the lineup for the Sunderland game after recovering from a jaw injury. George Godfrey is also back with the team.

The three games before the Monarchs got back on track saw them lose 7-0 to Millbrook, 6-2 to Cannington and tie Fenelon Falls 3-3.

Nielson and Ripley were the snipers for Minden against Cannington, with Anderson and Kernohan assisting.

Nielson scored twice against Fenelon and Anderson added a single. Nielson and Anderson also had one assist each.

The bantam A squad will go to Ops for a game on December 11. The next home game will be Thursday, December 15 at 7:30 p.m. against Haliburton. They will play host to Woodville at 8:30 on Saturday, December 17.

Midget A monarchs tie Ops 2-2

The first and last goals of the game weren't quite enough for a win when the Minden midget A squad went to Ops for a hockey game on November 26.

The Monarchs had to settle for a 2-2 tie.

Curtis Fielding opened the scoring for Minden late in the first period. Jon Hebert and Dave Raback assisted.

The Monarchs held onto that one goal advantage throughout the second period. But in the first minute of the third frame, Ops scored twice to snatch the lead away from the visitors.

Raback salvaged the tie for Minden, scoring with 39 seconds left in the game. Tom Bagshaw and Jeff Wray assisted.

The next home game for the Monarchs is Sunday, December 11 at 6:30 p.m. against Beaverton.

Legion bantams beat Manvers

Minden's Legion bantam B Monarchs hockey team came within a minute and a half of a shutout in Manvers on November 27. The Monarchs scored one goal in the first, one in the second and two in the third to build up a 4-0 lead over the host team at the Manvers arena.

With a minute and a half left in the third period a shutout was a real possibility for the Legion squad. But five seconds later, thoughts of a shutout evaporated when a Manvers sniper got one into the mesh.

Curtis Barry, Matt Cheeseman, Jason Kasepчук and Jason Horsley were the sharpshooters for the Minden team. Barry had a pair of assists to go with his goal and single assists went to Kasepчук, Gavin Gartshore, Philip Daniels and Kirk Smith.

Two new teams wear the Redmen colours

by Misty Bennett
HHSS student reporter

HHSS teacher Mr. Sternberg, a big fan of basketball, is the driving force behind the school's newest teams. He has organized junior and senior men's varsity league basketball teams.

When a meeting was called to determine if there was interest in forming a team, 33 male students and one female student attended. With that kind of support, try-outs were held to create two teams, "Naturally we will try to take the best players," Sternberg confirmed.

The group was split into junior and senior teams with ten players on each team, however the junior roster now stands at 14. The teams play exhibition games only, so they have been able to retain the involvement of the single female player. Coincidentally, their opening contest was against the Bracebridge high school, which also has a female player on the team.

To date, Sternberg has contacted five other high schools in an attempt to arrange exhibition games for the teams.

Practises take place after school in the gyms of J. Douglas Hodgson Elementary School and Archie Stouffer Elementary School, thanks to the support of the two principals MacKay Brydon and Peter Forgrave. The elementary school gymnasiums are used because the courts at the high school are not regulation size.

The teams travelled to Bracebridge on November 25. The juniors lost 80-30 while the seniors took a 52-26 loss at the hands of Bracebridge Muskoka Lakes Secondary School. Coach Sternberg commented after the games, "the scores could have been much closer, however this was the first time out for both teams...they gave up a lot of fast-break points."

Good luck to the newest teams to wear the Redmen colours.

Fish Whiskers opens Children's Concert Series

Undersea puppets delight youngsters

by Andrew Milne

Parents whose children's main form of social interaction is with a remote control might want to consider tickets to the Haliburton County Children's Concert Series 1995 season.

If the first concert, Iguanodon Theatre's Fish Whiskers, is any indication, the $17 season ticket ($8 at the door) should be money well spent.

Remaining concerts in the series are Judy & David's Jumpin' Up & Down (January 22), the Ontario Ballet Theatre's presentation of The Lion, the Witch, and the Wardrobe (February 26), and Kirk and Magoo's We are the Dinosaurs (April 2). All performances take place at 2:00 pm at the Archie Stouffer Elementary School in Minden.

Fish Whiskers by the Iguanodon Theatre Company is a black light puppet show billed as "a piscine romance with an a-finity (so to speak) with Romeo and Juliet" by the Edmonton Journal's Liz Nicholls.

Peppered with puns and choreographed to make the most of the black light medium, Fish Whiskers is described by its author as being about "differences, the individual and the other, in a multicultural society".

The plot, simply put, is that Angel, a pretty fish who feels self-conscious about her whiskers, meets Sockeye and the two become friends. But Angel's uncle Balthazar thinks different fish shouldn't mix.

The medium is perfect for the performance — the brightly coloured blacklight puppets undulate, dart and wriggle very much like fish in an aquarium. Much of the young audience seemed enraptured, and a question and answer session after the show resulted in enthusiastic participation.

The young actors — Karena Davis [Angel], Brian Leonard [Sockeye], and Mark Henderson [Uncle Balthazar, others] — are adept with the puppets and energetic and engaging in their roles.

Following the performance, youngsters and their parents had an opportunity to get a closer look at the puppets and talk to the animators who made the story of Fish Whiskers come alive. The performance was held November 27 at Archie Stouffer Elementary School.

And after 70 performances, says production manager Terina Fletcher, they're still having fun, though it's nice to get away from it now and then too.

"We were talking about that the other day," says Fletcher. "We go home and we want to do nothing with children — only adult things — we're going to stay away from each other. We have another three months to do next year."

Subscriptions to the series are available at the Master's Bookstore in Haliburton, Both CHACE Place locations, and at the Store-room in Minden.

Rent review guidelines released

The Ministry of Housing rent review guideline for 1995 has been set at 2.9 per cent. The new guideline which takes effect January 1, 1995 is simply that, a guideline. An amount by which a landlord can increase the maximum rent for a unit during the year without an approval from the Ministry of Housing. A tenant does not have to accept a rent increase at or below the guideline and may challenge an increase by applying to Rent Control.

Ninety days written notice of any increase must be given and can only be raised once in each 12 month period, even when a new tenant moves in.

For further information call the office of Rent Control Programs at 1-800-461-1255. Rental information and brochures are available at your nearest Information Centre in Haliburton or Minden.

Minden Beavers invade Toronto's SkyDome

Members of the Minden Beaver Colony, with their leaders, prepare to board the bus for the trip to Toronto's SkyDome. Included in the group were, Beavers Brandon Packer, Jeff Carrell, Steven Trepanier, Alex Coppins, Jeff Mickle, Orie Cox, Mathew Moore, Cory Harrison, Daniel Hirstwood, Brandon MacLeod, David McGlade and David Stewart. They were accompanied by leaders Paul Harrison, John Stevens, Pauline Stevens, Jim Coppins, Wayne Cox, helper Doug Holmes and Keeo Ronald Stevens. Lower left, the youngsters bed down for the night, but not before taking advantage of the wide open playing field, left, for some games.

Thirteen members of the Minden Beavers were among the 10,000 who gathered at SkyDome on November 26 and 27 to celebrate the 20th anniversary of that branch of Scouts Canada. The Minden area boys were part of the biggest Beaver colony in the world and according to Pauline Stevens, one of the local leaders who went with them, the local five to seven year-olds had a heyday.

A bus picked up the group at the Minden Community Centre at 8:30 on the Saturday morning and they arrived in plenty of time for the noon registration at SkyDome.

Once the Beavers were registered, they staked their claim on a small section of the SkyDome's floor to set up camp for a 24-hour stay. For the next several hours, the 10,000 plus crowd enjoyed performances by a variety of entertainers, including Eric Nagler, Lenny Graf and Jack Pearce. In between there were a host of See, Hear 'N Do activities and displays, games, crafts and images on the Jumbotron to keep everyone occupied. Big Brown Beaver, the mascot of the Beavers organization, paid a special visit for the event.

Lights out was scheduled for 11 p.m., but Leader Pauline Stevens said it was midnight before most of the participants were settled down.

After breakfast, the youngsters had more displays and activities. Ronno and Friends entertained and Hal Johnson and Joanne McLeod of Body Break were on hand to help the participants loosen up. B.J. Birdie was on hand at the same time.

By 10 a.m. the youngsters were packed up and on their way home.

This was the first such celebration for the Beavers. A similar event is in the planning stages for the 25th anniversary in 1999.

The Beavers branch of Scouting Canada is the largest group in the organization.

Coalition questions wisdom of province's MSA proposal

A coalition of service providers has spoken out against Bill 173. The Bill is intended to amalgamate all current long term care services in specific regions into one multi-service agency.

The coalition consists of about 30 organizations across the province. It says people who are in need of in-home care may find those services harder to get, unless the government changes its long-term care legislation.

The coalition says that the implementation of Multi-Service Agencies (MSAs), as set out in Bill 173, will have a negative impact on the people who need long-term care services. It says the MSAs will lead to inflexibility and inability to respond to individual needs; increased bureaucracy, waiting lists for services; service gaps; increased costs and the dislocation of services, clients, agencies and staff.

Another major concern of the coalition is the potential loss of volunteers if services are amalgamated. Without the volunteers, these services would not be able to operate.

"Volunteers will not automatically move to an MSA," the coalition states in a Fact Sheet outlining its opposition to Bill 173. It adds that experience and expertise along with good working conditions will be lost.

"Volunteers choose to become involved with an organization for many reasons, including: its aims and objectives; opportunities for meaningful experiences; ability to help people; history and traditions; cultural, religious or philosophical ideals; credibility; standards; and opportunities for friendship and comradery."

The coalition said that willingness by volunteers to donate their time and to raise funds for a government agency may not exist. "Many volunteers have already stated that they do not want to move to an MSA," the coalition says. "Their knowledge and commitment will be lost from the new structure."

It adds that the strong working relationship that has been developed under the present system will be destroyed.

Staff positions will also be jeopardized, according to the coalition. There have been no guarantees that existing employees will be hired by the MSAs.

In its interpretation of the legislation, priority will be given to unionized workers over non-unionized employees when it comes to filling positions within the MSAs. The coalition says that is clearly discriminatory against non-union employees.

"We have a legal opinion stating that the most recent amendments to the Bill appear to require that jobs must first be offered to unionized workers before any non-unionized workers," said Lynn Moore, director of Home Care Services for the Canadian Red-Cross.

Dan Stapleton of the Ontario Community Support Association adds: "This means that a non-unionized long term care worker with 20 years of experience could be pushed out of the system by a unionized worker who has been on the job for (as little as) four months."

Haliburton County Home Support Services is a member of the coalition through its membership in the Ontario Community Support Association.

A busy month at Minden Legion Br. 636

At Branch 636 we again had a busy November with a number of Remembrance Services attended in Minden and elsewhere. We are always pleased to have our school children, the scouts, guides and cadets involved with these services.

The Poppy Campaign was again a great success under the direction of Comrades Syd and Lois Adamson. We also wish to give hearty thanks to all who participated in the Poppy distribution, especially the Minden guides and the cadets from 1129 Army Cadet Corps. We are all rewarded in knowing that these funds will go to may worthy causes such as veterans' welfare, hospitals and seniors housing and health needs governed by the R.C.L. Provincial Command and L.A. Charitable Foundation.

Our veterans and their spouses did thoroughly enjoy the Veterans' Appreciation Night put on at the Community Centre on November 12. Comrade Ken Walsh and his Ways & Means Committee did a noble job arranging an excellent dinner and entertainment. It brought back some fond memories of days gone by for many. Speaking of the Vets, Branch 636 is again hosting a turkey dinner for known single veterans able to attend on Tuesday, December 13 at 5:30 p.m. We are very proud to have this party for the vets. Should anyone know of a single veteran who would be able to attend, kindly notify our Veterans Service Officer - Comrade Bud Murray at 489-2657 so we can set a place at the table for him.

December 11, starting at 1 p.m., 636 and our L.A. will again host their Christmas Party for the members' children or grandchildren. We will be having lots of goodies for the kids and the big fat jolly old fellow himself will be there with his bag full of toys for all of these good girls and boys. We would add that it is important the children be accompanied by an adult.

The St. Andrew's Night on Saturday, November 26 was again a success with a delicious fare of pub pie etc. Dinner was followed by dancing and a number of couples ably displayed their prowess at Scottish dancing.

Sunday, November 27, the branch opened for our annual Grey Cup Party with lots of fun, hilarity and football grub. At least we still have the Grey Cup in Canada for another year and we were sure some of our members had broad smiles on their faces going home after the party.

December has an event coming up to which all who wish tickets should act promptly. We are speaking of course of the New Year's Eve Party where our Ways and Means Committee are planning for great food, celebrations and fun. We'll all be dancing up a storm and at midnight, who knows what?

To those of our branch who remain on the sick list, we especially wish you a speedy recovery at this time of year. We also wish to pass on the sympathy of Branch 636 to Mrs. William A. Kirk and family at the recent passing of Comrade Bill. He will be remembered.

Lastly, Branch 636 wishes to say to all our neighbours and friends "May you have a very Merry Christmas and we pray that the new year will bring one and all good health, prosperity and happiness."

OUR CHRISTMAS OPEN HOUSE

Help the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce
Make a difference this Christmas

On December 15, 1994 from 1:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. we will be holding a Christmas Open House at our Minden Office. We will be serving light refreshments and a very large platter of gratitude.

Two members of our board of directors will be in the office at all times. Everyone is welcome to drop in and see how we market our County and answer any of your questions about the Chamber.

If you could help by donating a non-perishable food item and/or a gift of either a new toy or a new garment marked "Boy" or "Girl" - newborn to 16 years of age, or a monetary donation to the cause. These will be greatly appreciated and forwarded to the County area Christmas Hampers.

We Look Forward To Meeting You!!!

Reporters follow resurgence*Local trapper featured in CBC report

by Jerry Grozelle

A Canadian Broadcasting Corporation news feature on the resurgence of the fur trade will have some local flavour. CBC reporter Cheryl Jackson and photojournalist Chris Gargus came to the Norland area this past Thursday to interview local trapper Gordon Bartley Jr., to get some insight from the trapper's perspective.

Bartley has more than 35 years trapping experience even though he is now only 41 years old.

"My dad gave me two muskrat traps and a section of creek to trap when I was five years old," he explained.

The zone that Bartley traps was trapped by his father before him and his uncle before that.

"When dad first got the zone, his quota was five beavers," Bartley said. Since then, through sound management practices, he says his quota has been as high as 125 for the same zone.

"Trappers are farmers," he told the CBC's Jackson.

Bartley met the two CBC representatives at the Norlander Restaurant just north of Norland at about noon on Thursday. They discussed what type of footage would be required to round out the news feature.

Bartley explained that fur harvesting is very humane. It has reached the point where specific traps are required for each species that is to be taken. He produced two traps that were identical, except for the size. The smaller of the two was designed for fox trapping and the larger one for coyotes and wolves. He set the larger trap, a Victor #3 Soft Catch, to show Jackson and Gargus how it works. The duo was impressed when Bartley set the trap off by stabbing the pan with his fingers. The jaws of the trap snapped tightly onto his hand without causing so much as a bruise.

Leg hold traps such as these are only legal for foxes, wolves and coyotes in this area. Traps for furbearers such as beavers, mink, fisher, marten, raccoons, muskrats, otters and others, must render the animals unconscious immediately and cause death within two minutes, Bartley explained.

Following a half hour of discussion at the restaurant, the trio went to part of Bartley's trapline nearby, for the actual filming of the segment. Equipment was packed a few hundred yards to where two traps had been set the day before. One of the traps had a beaver and the other held a fisher.

Bartley retrieved the animals and showed Jackson and Gargus how the sets were made by resetting the traps while the camera rolled.

During the on-site interview, Bartley explained: "Trapping is not only a privilege, it's a responsibility."

Jackson asked about native issues and Bartley explained that Indians represent about 20 per cent of Ontario's trappers and that natives and non-natives have formed an alliance to fight the anti-trapping groups.

"The bottom line isn't aboriginal rights," he said, "it's wildlife management."

At one time, only beavers were regulated by a quota system.

"Now, every aspect of trapping is regulated," he said.

Under the quota system, trappers are required to trap certain maximum and minimum numbers of animals within their zones. The optimum number of animals for each area, given the amount of food available for the species in question, is determined. The quota is set to harvest the surplus animals. The trapper must harvest 75 per cent of the quota. As an example, Bartley explained that if the quota for beavers in a zone is 100 animals, the trapper is required to take at least 75, but he or she can't go over the 100 limit.

Bartley was chosen to give the trapper's point of view for the news feature because of his expertise. He was contacted through Sir Sandford Fleming College, where he teaches fur harvesting courses. He has been a trapping instructor for about 10 years.

He has been actively involved in several trapping organizations for many years. He was a director of the now defunct Ontario Trappers' Association (OTA) for eight years. He was the president of the Minden and District Fur Harvesters for at least six years and a director for several years as well.

Bartley was largely responsible for the writing of the constitution of the Ontario Fur Management Association Inc., which was formed after the OTA ceased to exist.

About five years ago, Bartley was hired by the Department of Indian Affairs to teach wildlife management, biology, the latest trapping techniques and survival skills to native Canadians in Northern Ontario.

That was an experience he described as "very interesting" and one that he would do again.

Bartley has seen many fluctuations in fur prices over the years. The latest nose-dive in fur prices was triggered by a highly organized anti-trapping faction. A campaign to educate the public about the true nature of trapping was launched by trapping organizations and they have been successful in changing public opinion to a large extent. The campaign successfully refuted claims of inhumane trapping practices, which were levelled by the anti-trapping faction.

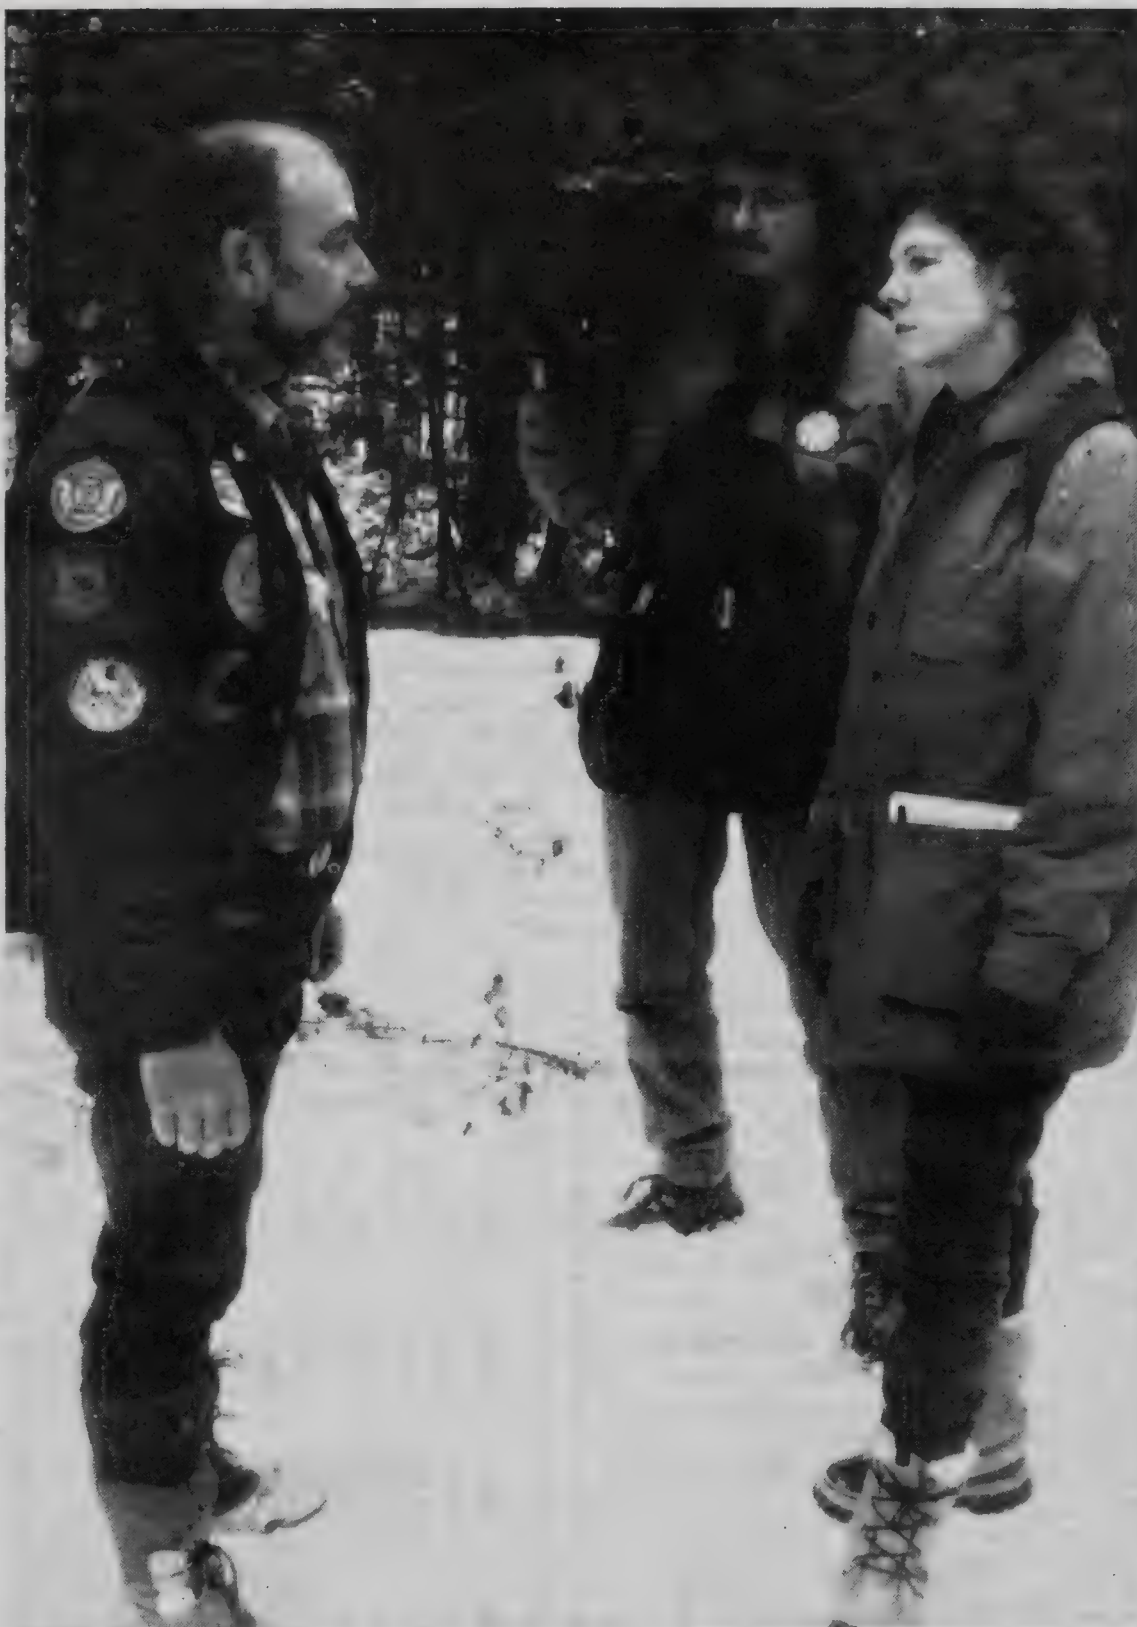

Bartley said that demand for fur remained fairly constant in spite of all the anti-trapping propaganda. But the prices fell to a level where it cost more for equipment and fuel than a fur harvester could recoup with the sale of the furs.

Fur prices have started to increase over the past two or three years and he expects prices to continue to increase for the next couple of years.

Jackson and Gargus spent a total of about four hours with Bartley last Thursday afternoon. At least half of that time was spent with the camera rolling. From that two hours of video tape, Bartley's segment of the finished product is expected to be less than three minutes.

The feature is scheduled to be aired this Wednesday (December 7) on CBC evening news. It will be available to local CBC affiliates such as CKVR, Barrie and CHEX, Peterborough. Jackson explained that the feature, which is expected to be six or seven minutes in length, will be made available to the affiliates. But there is no guarantee that the local stations will air the feature or when it will be used if they do decide to broadcast it. For those in Minden and Haliburton who have cable, the best bet to see the news feature is on CBC Newsworld (Channel 16) this Wednesday.

Norland area resident Gordon Bartley Jr., left, is interviewed by CBC reporter Cheryl Jackson, with cameraman Chris Gargus to present a trapper's perspective for a news feature on the resurgence of trapping.

Senior League

by Winnifred Barnum

Hello Folks!
Well, it is that time again, it doesn't seem long since last Christmas. This year I've been learning to live with most of my eyesight gone, however, I still enjoy writing the senior league column and will continue to do so for as long as I can.

Saturday, November 19, we enjoyed the music of Mary Montgomery and Collin Anderson from Coboconk. They played the trumpet, keyboard and mouth organ. As soon as this was over, I was invited out for supper with my sister May Cameron, her husband Roy and their daughter Jacqueline. All my thanks to them too.

Sunday, November 20, Estella Burch came in to carry on with our story, thank you Estella. In the evening, our chapel service was taken by Rev. John Burgess and the organ was played by Marion Fisher. We thoroughly enjoyed the service, thank you John and Marion.

Monday, November 21, the residents' council executive met with the administrator for a special meeting.

Tuesday chapel service was taken by Pastor Murray. Thank you Pastor Murray, we enjoy your service and songs. In the afternoon, we had crafts with Dottie and the girls and we sure accomplished a lot. We are now ready for our Fantastic Christmas Bazaar so we will be looking forward to seeing you here.

Support is appreciated

As Christmas fast approaches, I'm reminded of how the "gift of giving" has so generously been displayed throughout C.H.A.C.E.'s programs over this past year. Without the support of so many in our community, it simply would not have been possible for us to offer the services we do.

We owe a huge debt of gratitude to the local businesses who have so generously supported our program recovery campaign, assisted in our fund raising efforts and special raffles, provided us with space for sidewalk sales and have donated many wonderful and much needed items. (Psst...thanks for the rug, Brad!). There are also so many of our families who support us through their donations by mending toys, fixing our computers (!) taking our recycling, helping out on the floor, volunteering on committees and supporting our staff. Our thanks seem pale in comparison to your efforts!

Then there is our staff who have dedicated their careers to brightening the smiles of the children of our county...thank you. And to our often unsung heroes, our volunteer Board of Directors, we extend our thanks for your financial support and commitment to promoting the well-being of our County's children and your dedication to a supportive work environment.

It has been our pleasure to serve the families of Haliburton County this past year. We wish you all a magical and joyous Christmas and a New Year filled with peace.

In closing, I'd like to remind you that all C.H.A.C.E. programs will close at the end of business day on Friday, December 23 and reopen on Tuesday, January 3. Happy Holidays!

OPP RIDE program hopes to reduce incidents of impaired driving

The Ontario Provincial Police will be joining other police agencies and organizations between now and December 31 for the annual RIDE program. RIDE stands for Reduce Impaired Driving Everywhere. In effect since 1987, the roadside checks have proven to be very successful in preventing drinking and driving.

This year, M.A.D.D. (Mothers Against Drunk Driving) will mount its biggest red ribbon campaign ever; the Canada Safety Council will be promoting the 39th annual National Safe Driving Week between December 1 and 7; and the Ministry of Culture, Tourism and Recreation will again run its promotional tourism campaign entitled "take a Breather in Ontario". These campaigns parallel the OPP's festive RIDE initiative with the common objective of promoting safe, sober driving.

During the 1992-93 festive season initiative, the OPP checked more than 700,000 vehicles, issued more than 2100 12 hour licence suspensions and laid nearly 900 impaired driving charges. Still 155 people were killed.

Speaking on behalf of the OPP, Constable Mike Landry is asking everyone travelling this holiday season to take extra care in reaching his or her destination and to make this a safe and happy occasion for everyone.

Don't drink and drive.

Reflections

by David Suzuki

Watch a child's face while she's poking around in a tidal pool, peering under a rotten log or netting tadpoles in a pond. The joy of surprise and discovery is instantly visible on her face. When my daughter, Severn, was three or four, she asked me how worms are able to move through the ground. I told her they simply eat soil at the front and poo it out the back. "Oh," she responded, "so dirt is worm-food?" And I could see a smile of delight at this new thought.

Charles Darwin shared Severn's fascination with worms. When he heard someone had estimated there were 53,767 worms per acre, Darwin is reported to have "figured the worm population swallowed and brought up ten tons of earth each year on each acre of land. Earthworms therefore were...constantly turning it inside out. They were burying old Roman ruins. They were causing the monoliths of Stonehenge to subside and topple...Darwin concluded: 'Worms have played a more important part in the history of the world than most persons would at first suppose'."

One of the pleasures of science journalism is coming across something that clicks on a light, suddenly providing an entirely new perspective on things around us. For example, in the 70s, biologist Lynn Margulis suggested that structures called organelles found within cells of complex organisms are actually the evolutionary remnants of bacterial parasites.

She pointed out that organelles are able to reproduce within a cell and even possess DNA and distinct hereditary traits. So, Margulis proposed, organelles were once free-living organisms that invaded cells and were eventually integrated into the host. In giving up their independence, these bacterial relics received nourishment and protection from the host cell. Looking in the mirror now, I see a reflection of a community of organisms inhabiting trillions of cells aggregated as me.

I once asked Harvard University's eminent biologist, Edward O. Wilson, why ants are so successful. His entire career has been spent studying these ubiquitous insects and he became animated with enthusiasm. "There are only a few tens of thousands of species of ants compared with millions of other non-social insects, but they dominate the world. Their secret is super-organism." "A colony of ants is more than just an aggregate of insects that are living together. One ant is no

ant. Two ants and you begin to get something entirely new. Put a million together with the workers divided into different castes, each doing a different function, cutting the leaves, looking after the queen, taking care of the young, digging the nest out and so on, and you've got an organism weighing about 10 kilograms, about the size of a dog and dominating an area the size of a house."

"The nest involves moving about 40,000 pounds of soil and sends out great columns of workers like the pseudopods of an amoeba, reaching out and gathering leaves and so on. This is a very potent entity. It can protect itself against predators. It can control the environment, the climate of the nest. When I encounter one of these big nests of leaf cutter ants, I step back and let my eyes go slightly out of focus. And what you see then is this giant, amoeboid creature in front of you." It was a thrilling description that lets us contemplate ants in a very different way.

In 1972, scientists in Michigan made the astounding announcement that the network of mycelia, thread-like extensions of fungi found in the ground, could be derived from a single individual, not an aggregate of different organisms. They reported a single organism that extended throughout 16 hectares! Not long after, biologists in Washington reported a fungus covering 607 hectares. This fall, I was filming in a grove of quaking aspen, the lovely white barked trees whose leaves shimmer at the slightest puff of air. I learned what I thought was a group of individual trees was, in fact, a single organism. Like a strawberry plant that can spread asexually by sending out runners that send down roots and sprout leaves, quaking aspen multiply vegetatively. From one tree, shoots may grow up from a root 30 metres away.

The aspen is another kind of superorganism that can exploit a diverse landscape, parts may grow in moist soil and share the water with other portions perhaps growing in mineral-rich soil higher up. In Utah, a single aspen plant made up of 47,000 tree trunks was discovered. It covers an area of 43 hectares and is estimated to weigh almost six million kilograms.

We know so little about the varieties of species that exist and the specific attributes of individual organisms that we have endless opportunities for discovery. It is a prospect to anticipate the surprises that await us.

Acid rain report

The following report on acid precipitation was recorded at the Ministry of Environment and Energy site near Dorset and compiled by Environment Canada.

This report covers the period November 20-26:

Nov. 21: 23 mm of mixed rain and snow with a pH of 4.7, following a path from western North Carolina, western Virginia and western Pennsylvania

Nov. 22: 14 cm of snow, with a pH of 5.1 following a path from northern Ontario and Lake Superior.

Nov. 25: 6 cm of snow, with a pH of 5.2 following a path from Lake Superior and northern Michigan.

Environmental damage to lakes and streams is usually observed in sensitive areas regularly receiving precipitation with pH readings of less than 4.7. Readings less than 4.0 are considered serious.

And thanks to Shirley Wallace for this little poem entitled, "Will You Make Squares?" She says the author is unknown, but any active member of a UCW should recognize the story.

It's six o'clock, my home's a mess and dinner's running late.

The baby's lost her soother,

My son just lost his date.

The phone is ringing. I hear thunder coming down the stairs.

"It's for you Mom. It's Mrs. Jones.

She says, will you bring the squares?"

The Bishop came last Sunday.

An Episcopal event.

Finest linen, Finest china, (and we didn't make a cent!)

The rector put on his good suit,
Patricia put on airs

Sue and I washed the dishes, and
Oh yes, we brought the squares.

I love our spiritual retreat.

It fills me with such peace.

To be one with God and world....

At last I've found my place.

I'd love to linger here a while,

Perhaps to say some prayers,

But I'm in charge of making tea

And setting out the squares.

My kitchen's filled with luscious scents,

Hubby watches as I bake.

He sees me as I ice the cake.

"Now tell me, dear" he coyly asks,

"Who are these goodies for?"

"For God and Canada," I say and whisk them out the door.

I admit I've been discouraged

And I've asked myself, "who cares?"

But I found out,

I went just once, without my precious squares.

When I've organized my last bazaar and raffled my last prize,

I'll not be sad to see it end,

I'll welcome my demise!

I've loved a lot and laughed until it hurts,

and in the end I'm sure

I'll get my just desserts.

But should my Master summon me and catch you unawares,

Consider this: Now at my wake

Who'll make the bloody squares?

CARDS OF THANKS

We wish to thank our family, relatives, friends and neighbours for the wonderful, surprise 40th anniversary and birthday party and for the cards, gifts and flowers we received. Special thanks to Shelley for organizing it, Wayne, Karen and Allana who travelled so far to be home, Brent who had a helping hand in a lot of things. To Doris who kept us away from home but she kept us in the county. Also the delicious buffet that was prepared for everyone. It was a day we will always treasure. Thanks to all. God Bless.

Spike and Irene Moxam.

The family of the late Clarence Bunker would like to express our sincere thanks to all our friends, neighbours and relatives for all their kindnesses during Clarence's illness. We deeply appreciate all the floral tributes, memorial donations, food, visits, cards, phone calls and your prayers during our bereavement. A very special thanks to the staff at the Minden Hospital, Dr. Holliday-Rhodes and staff, Rev. Peter Walford-Davis and Gordon A. Monk Funeral Home. Your support and kindness will always be remembered.

Shirley and the Bunker family.

Sincere thanks to Dr. Warsi and the nursing and kitchen staff at Minden Hospital. Thanks also for the prayers and visits from friends and family while I was a patient in hospital.

Frank Wright.

Thanks to Marian, Scott and family, Jodi, Nick and family for a memorable birthday supper complete with birthday cake. Thanks to Gavin and Tasha for the birthday serenade. Also to Arthurlene for the truffles - I really needed them! If good wishes were dollars, you guys have made me a millionaire!

Annie.

Branch 441, Royal Canadian Legion Kinmount, wishes to thank all who donated to the Poppy Fund and to all the volunteers who participated throughout the Campaign and at the Remembrance Services in order to make the 1994 Poppy Campaign a success.

Murray F. King,
Poppy Chairman.

CARDS OF THANKS

The Stanhope Recreation Committee would like to thank everyone who attended the 2nd Annual Winefest and Christmas Craft Show. It was another super event thanks to the volunteers and their work, the crafters and their talents and the public for its interest. We would like to apologize for the missing wine company representative who was supposed to explain the wines. Our sponsor, Vincor (Bright's and Cartier Wines) told us Friday morning they simply weren't coming. The show must go on, though, so we did our best. Many thanks to Andres Wines Ltd., for their very generous last minute cash donation to the Stanhope Firefighters' Association Fundraiser. We look forward to working together next year. Donations to the firefighters' fundraiser are still being accepted. Merry Christmas to you all!

Sincere thanks to my friends and relatives for the many phone calls, cards, visits and flowers that I received while I was in Oshawa Hospital. It is good to be back in Minden! Christmas Greetings to all.

Evelyn Cox.

We would like to give our sincere thanks to our four children, Paul and Margo Sisson (Austen), Phil and Kathy Allen (Austen), Dan and Glenda Austen, Elwood and Donna Austen and our grandchildren for making our 50th wedding anniversary such a special day. Starting with dinner at the Red Umbrella and then a surprise gathering of family members and so many of our special friends. Our honoured guests were Fr. Brian Parker and Joan. We thank everyone for their gifts and so many beautiful cards and also to the guests who travelled so far to be with us. Thanks to the people at the Red Umbrella who took such good care of our needs and made us feel so special. If we have forgotten anyone, we are truly sorry. Sincere thanks to everyone. Our love and God Bless.

Nelson and Hazel Austen.

...He is truly happy who has all that he wishes to have, and wishes to have nothing which he ought not to wish.

IN MEMORIAM

ALTON, Leslie Sr. - In memory of our dear Dad and granddad who passed away December 6, 1991. This month comes with sad regrets, It brings back the day we will never forget, You passed away without a goodbye, But our memories of you will never die. We miss you more than anyone knows, As each day passes, the emptiness grows, Those we love don't go away, They walk beside us every day, Unseen, unheard, but always near, Forever loved and very dear. Always remembered and never forgotten by daughter Kelly, son-in-law Don and grandsons Shane and Nathan.

ALTON, Leslie - In loving memory of my dear husband who passed away December 6, 1991. He left us quickly, His thoughts unknown, But left us a memory We are proud to own. So treasure him Lord, In your garden of rest, For when on earth, He was one of the best. Sadly missed by his wife Lillian.

ANDERSON, Ernest - In loving memory of my dear husband who passed away December 4, 1993. I remember the day I met you, And the day God made you mine, I remember the day I lost you And will till the end of time. Among the tears and heartaches, There is one thing that makes me glad, That you chose me to spend with you, The happy years we had. Sadly missed by his ever-loving wife Vivian

ANDERSON, Ernest - In memory of a dear grandfather who passed away December 4, 1993. He left us quietly, His thoughts unknown, But left us a memory, We are proud to own, So treasure him Lord, In your garden of rest, For when on earth He was one of the best. Lovingly remembered Jeff, Tina and family.

ANDERSON, Ernest - In loving memory of a dear father who passed away December 4, 1993. Farewell dear father, thy work is o'er, Thy willing hands will toil no more. A loving father, kind and true, No one on earth we'll find like you. Sadly missed and always remembered by June and Randy.

IN MEMORIAM

AUSTIN, Edna - In loving memory of my wife Edna who passed away December 8, 1988. Her memory is our keepsake, With which we'll never part, God has her in His keeping, We have her in our hearts. Your loving husband Jack, sons Murray and Bill and all the grandchildren.

BURK, Tim - In loving memory of our dear son who left us peacefully December 8, 1992. To raise a son and lose him, Is a heartache no one knows, Except all other parents Who have travelled down this road. You were a special gift God gave us, And filled our home with cheer, With your love and laughter For twenty-one years. For a son we loved so dearly, From a family left behind, Someday we'll all be together, When God calls us one by one. Until then we live with memories Of a loving and trusting son. Sadly missed and always loved by Mom and Dad.

BURK, Tim - In loving memory of a dear brother who passed away December 8, 1992. It's not the tears that are shed at the time, That tells of the hearts that are broken, It's the lonesome tears in the after years, When your loving name is spoken. Softly the leaves of memory fall, Unseen, unheard you are always near, Still loved, still missed, still very dear. Always remembered by Jack, Sharlene, Tarryn, Mackenzie, Craig and Jennifer.

BURK, Tim - In loving memory of our dear nephew, who passed away December 8, 1992. There's a special corner in our hearts We keep it just for you, As long as life and memory last, We shall love and remember you. Lovingly remembered by Aunt Helen, John, Aunt Barbara, Uncle Doug, Aunt Jean and families.

PHILIPS, Blanche Nesbitt - Remembering you Mom on your birthday. Love forever, David, Donnie, Dougie, Glenn, Rosie and Dolly.

JOHNSTON, Glen - who died suddenly December 5, 1989. We've all felt the loss, It's hard to describe, We know what we lost, And Glen it hurts deep inside. We could never replace you, No matter how much we try, But we will always love you You were such a great guy. Always in our thoughts, loved and sadly missed, Bev, Wendy and families.

IN MEMORIAM

JOHNSTON, Glen Miceal - In loving memory of a dear son who passed away December 5, 1989 in his 34th year. Memories are treasures no one can steal, Death leaves a heartache no one can heal, Precious are Glen's memories silently kept, Those you love, you never forget. No eye can see us when we weep, But many silent tears are shed When others are asleep. Treasure our Glen Lord in your garden of rest, For here on earth he was one of the best. Son, you live forever in our hearts. Deeply loved and sadly missed by Mom, brother and sisters.
